Pickwick's New Latin-American Service Now in Operation

First International Air Service Between Pacific Coast, Mexico and Guatemala

AGAIN PICKWICK writes another new chapter in air travel. This great nation-wide transportation system, famous for the efficiency, dependability and economy it has brought to land travel and later to air-service, now extends its airway lines to Mexico and Guatemala.

This new Latin-American service fills a long-felt need, and provides a quick comfortable way to reach Mexico City, Guatemala, and intermediate points. Its opening marks an important international event. It means much from a social as well as a commercial standpoint and will be eagerly welcomed by the ever increasing number of people whose business carries them to Mexico and Guatemala. It also provides an unusual and interesting way for visitors to see these neighboring countries.

A SPECIAL fleet of big powerful Pickwick planes, as comfortable and as luxuriously appointed as fine private yachts are used on this new Latin-American service, affording passengers every modern travel comfort.

Pickwick pilots are the finest that can be obtained, every one having had many years of flying experience. All Pickwick attendants will be found courteous and attentive to travelers' needs.

This new Latin-American service will carry mail and express as well as passengers, and will add about 2700 miles to the Pickwick Airways flying service. It provides the only airway along the West coast of Mexico. For reservations and further particulars see any Pickwick agent.

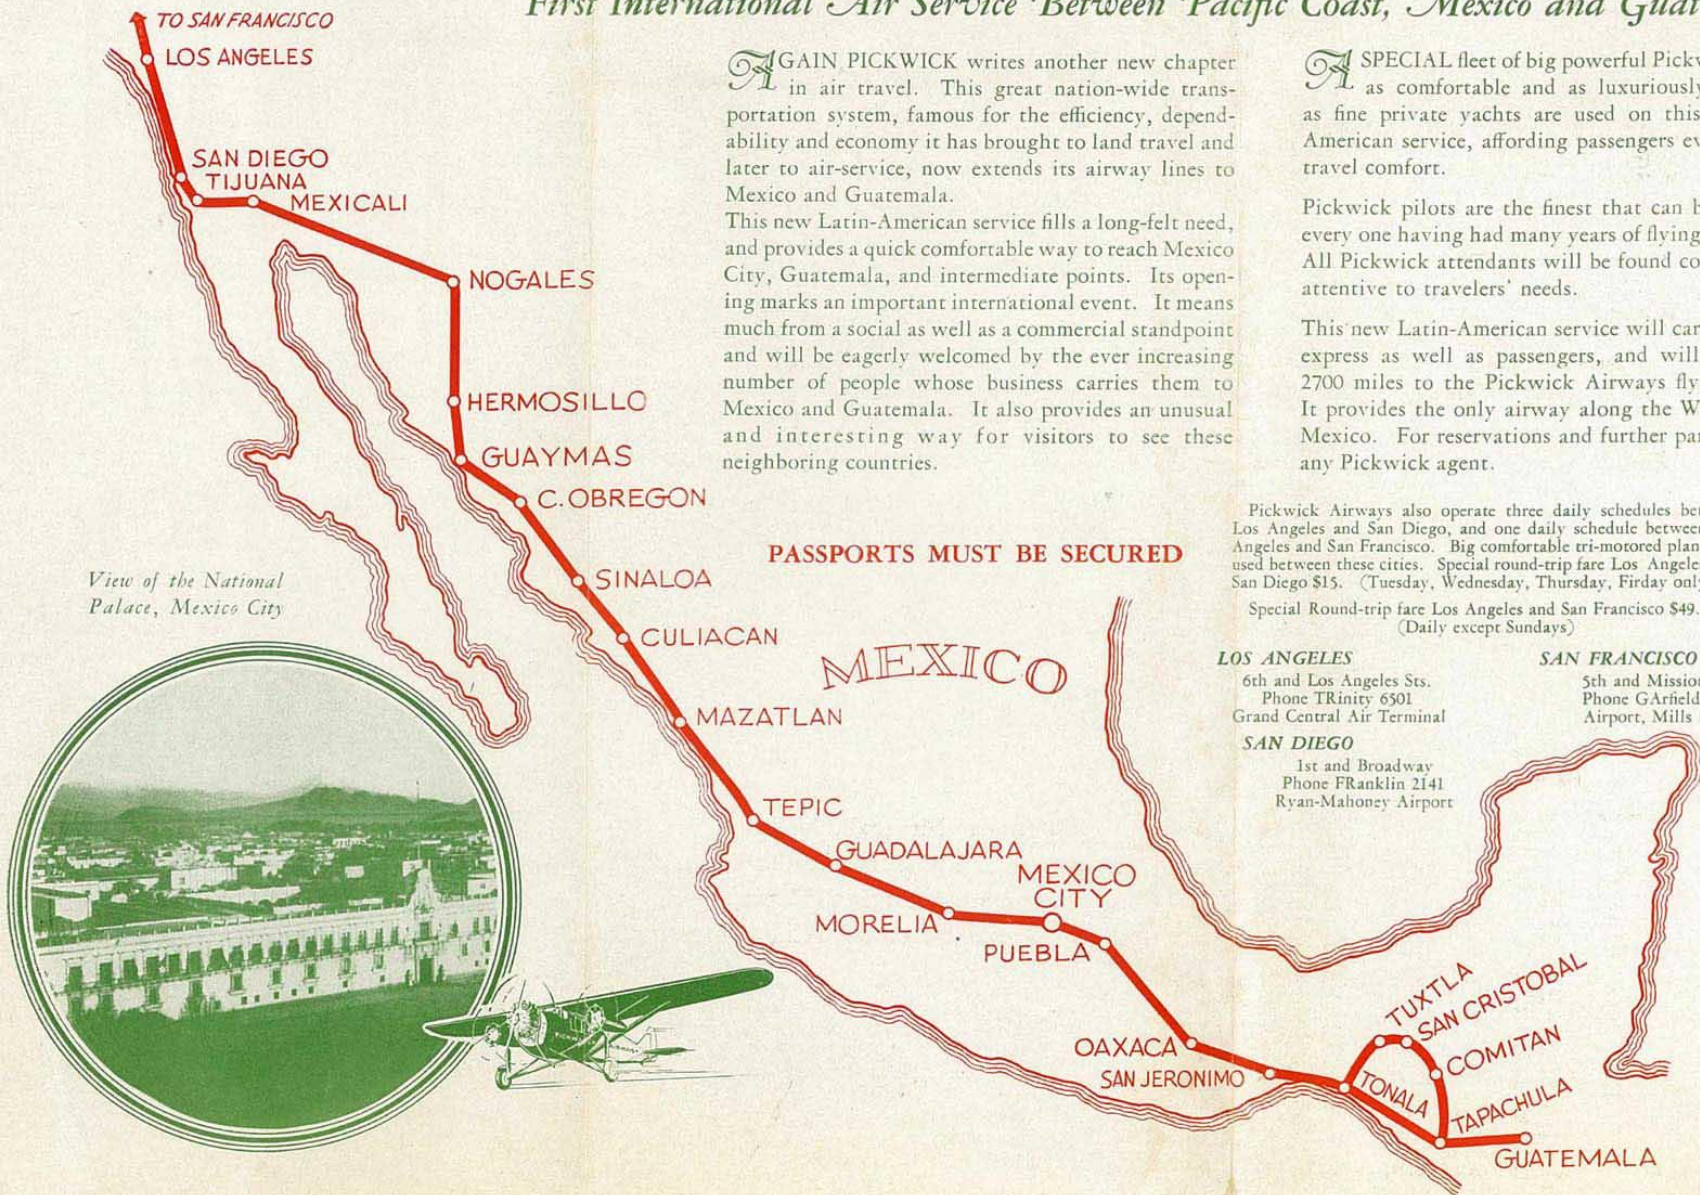

Pickwick Airways also operate three daily schedules between Los Angeles and San Diego, and one daily schedule between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Big comfortable tri-motored planes are used between these cities. Special round-trip fare Los Angeles and San Diego $15. (Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday only)

Special Round-trip fare Los Angeles and San Francisco $49.50 (Daily except Sundays)
